

MBA 567 : Practicum & Seminar

The aim of this course is to develop student skills and to demonstrate the application of classroom knowledge and theory through a practice experience relevant to their areas of interest. The students will have the opportunity to provide evidence of application to potential employers. The practicum will be supervised and evaluated by a qualified preceptor/academic advisor and must be framed and carried out within a public health practice context with an established organization or agency and apply public health skills and competencies.

Grad Scheme

Letter

Credits 3

Prerequisite Courses

MBA 560